

Electioneering and Posting Signs in Polling Places

Section 115.637(18) RSMo of Missouri State Law prohibits, among other things, electioneering, distributing election literature, and posting signs with respect to any candidate or question to be voted on inside the building in which a polling place is located or within 25 feet of the building's outer door.

Violation of this law is a class 4 Election Offense, punishable by imprisonment of up to one year and/or a fine of up to $2500.